MAJOR JOHN H. WARD.

A San Jacinto Veteran Whose Home

Is at St. Mary's.
Sinton, Texas, May 17.—On the north shore of Puerta bay, perched upon a bluff perhaps twenty feet above the tide, overlooking as pretty a body of water as can be found, is the beautiful ranch home of Major. John H. Wood, one of the pioncers of Texas, a San Jacinto and Confederate veteran, who counts his summers and his winters at four score and two, and a joilier old "vet" it would be hard to find. The Po t correspondent had the pleasure of paying a visit of several days to his home recently and greatly enjoyed the many remais-cences of earlier days with which he delights to entertain his guests.

Major Wood located at his present abode near the old town of St. Mary's in 1848, and has resided there continuously ever since, and notwithstanding the cutrenties of his sons and daughters who are scattered all over the country he persists in his determination never to desert the old homestead. He was born in New York in 1816 and arrived at Gaiveston on March 1, 1836, five days before the fall of the Alamo, and entered at once into active service. His long residence in Texas has made him a true Southerner and he has always been a

His patience was sorely tried at what he considered the dilatory factics of the pres-ent administration in beginning the war for Cuban independence, and he looks anx-lously for the arrival of The Daily Post, which reaches him at 1 o'clock the day after publication, refusing to take his daily nap till he has scanned the latest news.
